

Library in New Millennium: Comparative Study with Conventional Libraries

W.M.A.K.Wijekoon

Abstract

In the context of technological development of new millennium, a new transition of the conventional library is called as virtual library. In this transition era conventional libraries based on physical basis, rapidly changing over to the computer based virtual library.

This paper analyses major impacts of the virtual libraries and their advancements comparing with the traditional libraries.

In addition to this it is discussed the importance of adaptation both library professionals and user community face to the above technological enhancements. It will be benchmark to familiar those virtual libraries among the public of present information era.